

Why is Alliant a fit for you?

We asked our employees what attracted them to Alliant. The consensus is in and these are the top answers:

Riding the Growth Curve

Alliant celebrated its tenth anniversary last year. And with each year, we surpass the growth of the previous year. We may be young in years and small in size, but there's nothing little about how quickly we've grown.

"I Matter" Environment

Everyone wants to know that their contributions are making a difference. At Alliant, it truly is a team environment where every voice counts and each effort is recognized.

Smart People Working with "Cool" Technology

One of the greatest strengths at Alliant is the people. Joining Alliant is joining a team of subject matter experts who are constantly at the forefront of the newest technologies in the industry.

Maximize Potential: Success is what you make it

Life at Alliant is what you put into it. There's no max on the amount of success that can be realized. The harder you work, the further your career will go.

Opportunity to Expand Your Skill Set

Since we're always on the cutting edge of something new, there's always something new to learn. Alliant encourages all its employees to continue to achieve new certifications and learn through training and mentoring.

Where do you fit at Alliant?

We know what makes Alliant a great place to work. Now let's see who makes a great fit on our teams:

Sales Team

Members of our sales team are Self-Motivated. They're the aggressive go-getter types that are driven by the potential for high-earnings. They're more extroverted than most and thrive on being visible and self-aware. The more they learn through mentoring and training, the more confidence they have to control and drive their own success. If this sounds like you, then Alliant's Sales team is where you need to be.

Engineering Team

Do you like working with cutting edge of technology? Do you like having the opportunity to constantly learn new technologies? If yes, then Alliant's engineering team is waiting for you. Our engineers are problem solvers. They're often introspective, definitely self-directed, and like to think creatively. They are continuously gaining new certifications and resolving complex issues for our major clients. If you're interested in knowledge sharing and jumping on a fast track to grow as an engineer, Alliant's the place for you.

IT Operations Team

Technical Operations are the backbone of our managed services team. They're an extension of our customers' IT department. They're process oriented and demonstrate excellent communication skills as they have daily interactions with Alliant's customer base. These are our apprentice engineers who want to start to build their certification portfolio. This is a great place to start your engineering career.
